INTRODUCTION

The Civil Survey.

THE immediate circumstances leading to the taking of the Civil Survey (1654-6) were the statutory commitments of successive Parliaments, in England, in respect of advances of money, by way of adventure, and of the arrears of pay due by the Commonwealth Government to its own officers and soldiers. These obligations were to be satisfied in allotments of Irish land and, as a preliminary measure of enquiry, a survey of the country, founded upon the authentic information of the old inhabitants was directed to be made. The barony was selected as the territorial basis of the survey, as it was to be the ultimate area in which the allotments to the interests concerned were to lie. The extensive information required was of a geographical, proprietorial and economic nature and, for this purpose, the most able of the residents were to be constituted juries. These were to be empanelled by local commissioners appointed under commission.¹

In more than one of the commissions authorizing the survey, and directing the procedure to be followed, the survey to be made was distinctly named the Civil Survey. It was to be made under the jurisdiction of special courts called Courts of Survey. These Courts were to determine and record the possessions of the proprietors of lands and the tenures and titles of their respective estates. For this purpose, power was given to summon, and examine upon oath, such persons as might be considered competent to assist in the discovery of the facts; and further, to demand the production of such evidence of title as was considered necessary. Here, an analogy may be found to those courts which take cognizance of questions of fact only arising between man and man in his civil capacity. Allowing that the Survey was made under the Civil Authorities, and, also, that it was made by the people, or their most knowledgeable men, it is suggested that the Civil Survey was so called because it would be essentially a testified record of the facts concerning the possessions of the subjects, the citizens, and declared to on oath before courts appointed to ascertain such facts.

The Civil Survey was begun in June, 1654, and commissions continued to be issued during 1655 and 1656. Through the zeal and industry of the late W. H. Hardinge, Esq., M.R.I.A., its territorial extent, the names of the commissioners, and the dates of their commissions can be ascertained.² As to the extent of the Civil Survey, it comprehended the whole of Leinster, the whole of Ulster, with the exception of the barony of Farney, in the county of Monaghan; the whole of Munster, with the exception of Clare; in Connacht, only the county of Leitrim was surveyed. This represented in all, a Civil Survey of twenty-seven counties. For the remaining five, the earlier survey, called Stafford's survey, was available. According to the Book of Distribution, the Gross Survey—the survey immediately preceding the Civil Survey, was utilised for the barony of Farney.

What has survived of the Civil Survey extends to parts of three provinces, namely, for Munster—Tipperary, Limerick, Waterford, and part of one barony in Kerry; for Leinster—Dublin (except New Castle and Upper Cross), Kildare (except Ophaley), Meath, Wexford (except Forth); for Ulster—Donegal, Londonderry and Tyrone.

From this survival of the Civil Survey, and from the Commission and Instructions which have been preserved, the functions of the commissioners, the duties of the juries, and the method of exhibiting their survey may be learned.

The functions of the Commissioners included the holding of Courts of Survey, and in having their ascertained particulars engrossed in one or more books, each barony by itself. These engrossments were to be returned, attested under the hands of three or more of the Commissioners, to the Surveyor-General and, a duplicate, in like manner, fairly engrossed, attested and sealed up to the Registrar for Forfeited Lands. It appears from the list of the Commissioners, for each county, that the same set operated in several counties. Thus, in Ulster, the identical Commissioners were appointed for Antrim, Armagh and Down, and likewise another similar set for Derry, Donegal and Tyrone. In the south and east the same Commissioners were appointed for Waterford and Queen's County; and again the one set for King's County and Longford.

Before the Civil Survey was begun, it was recommended that the Commissioners to be appointed should be the Commissioners of Revenue "upon the place" or "other able and knowing men in the countrey." The names, which have been preserved, can be identified with the family names associated with the landed settlements in Ireland, for a period considerably more than fifty years prior to the Survey. In the north, particularly, the Commissioners would appear to have been proprietors of land. From time to time, new Commissioners were appointed, as the attestations to the Survey, which has survived, show. Mr. Hardinge's list is that of the original Commissioners.

The duties of the local juries were of the widest and most responsible nature. They were to be given "in charge to inquire and find out all and every the particulars" required to be ascertained. They were, when necessary, "to view and tread the meets and bounds of the premises, and to forme all such other matters and things as are perfectly inquirable in courts of survey . . ." These juries were composed—as was indeed attested—of "the most able and ancient Inhabitants of the country." Their names have survived for all the baronies of two counties—Tipperary and Limerick. It is possible to identify some of these jurors as proprietors, and it would not be an unreasonable conjecture to assume, in most cases, that they were relatives of proprietors—brothers or elder sons. The juries for corporate towns appear to have been composed of the mayor, aldermen and burgesses, together with representatives of the professional and business interests. Additional jurors were added as assistants by special order. The name of the clerk appointed by two of the Limerick juries is given, at the end of the lists of jurors for the barony of Pobblebrien and of the Liberties of Limerick.

Distinct juries were appointed for each barony and were selected, as stated, for their special knowledge of the territories within which they resided. The number comprising each jury varied. In Limerick they ranged from twenty-four to forty-five for each barony; in Tipperary, from ten to twenty-three. For the distinct surveys to be made of Crown and Church lands the same jurors were appointed.

The survey of each barony opens with a description of its meares and bounds, and with an exposition of the nature of its soil. Its contents according to the old land measure is set down, and the description concludes with an account of the parishes, manors and castles within the barony. The boundaries of the parish follow, and at the end of each description there is a statement as to the value of the tythes. The lands comprising the parish, their owners, estimated area, what was profitable and unprofitable, and the respective valuations are then set out in tabular form, intersected by further descriptive particulars relating to the tenures or titles under which each denomination was held. Here the ancestral tenures of the Gael, and the Norman, existing in 1640, are exhibited and recorded, as well as titles "by patent from the Crowne."

Instances of the former will be found in the barony of Ikerrin, within the text of this volume. There, the whole parish of Killea is shown to have been individually and "moyetively" distributed between numerous proprietors "all descended out of the house of O'Magher whose title they clayme (viz.) by fee from their ancestors." It is recorded of each that he was the proprietor of the fractional proportion specified by descent from his ancestors. These inherited divisions, the meares of which could "by no way be set forth distinctly" represented, doubtless, the shares to which the proprietors were entitled, individually, in the productivity of the soil. Whether the division was in pursuance of a Brehon decree, or family arrangement, is not recorded. But there is extant for certain lands in the neighbouring barony of Lower Ormond, a copy of a Brehon judgment, dated 8th October, 1584, regulating the tenures thereof, and which directs "an honest, equal, brotherly division with each other according to the custom of their ancestors."³

In addition to the tenures, the description of the lands includes an account of their amenities. The area under timber, its distance from the nearest port, the presence of mills, and the varying succulence of rivers and streams, according to the season of the year, are amongst the particulars recorded in this section of the Civil Survey. And so, until every parish in the barony was completed.

Thus emerged the "old inhabitants" survey of their country, of its place—names, rendered phonetically into English of the time, of its ancient tenures, of its land measures and territorial divisions. It extended far beyond the discovery of forfeited lands, Crown lands, Church lands, the lands of the English and of Protestant lands—their owners, and estimated areas. It revealed and preserved the memory of the ancient bounds, place-names, and antiquities of three provinces. It comprehended the detection of the wealth and valuation of the country, in every form under and above the surface of the land. The Civil Survey is not limited to defining the boundaries of forfeited lands; it records the boundaries of baronies "and the course that the said meets and bounds doe runne." It gives independent dealings with lands, transfers by sale, bequests by testament, mortgages, and marriage settlements. It is a description of the physical features of the land from the highest to the lowest denominations—a geography of its mountains, its high roads, its rivers and streamlets, and simultaneously a record of the ownership and title to the lands which these natural boundaries surrounded or divided.

The purpose of the survey has been stated by Mr. Hardinge: "Many persons are under an impression that the Civil Survey was designed as the basis of the satisfactions afterwards made to the soldiers for arrears of pay due to them, and that it was rejected by the Government in consequence of complaints of its inaccuracy. Such an impression is altogether erroneous. This survey was not designed for the purpose assumed. It was a preliminary work, essential to the discovery and description in a legitimate and solemn manner of the forfeited lands, and from which lists technically called 'terriers' were afterwards supplied to the several surveyors for their admeasurement and mapping.

³ 29th Report Deputy Keeper Public Records Ireland (1897). The judgment was transcribed and rendered into English by Mr. M. J. McEnery, M.R.I.A.

"It was by these maps, and their index sheets, when approved by the Surveyor-General, and sanctioned by Government, and not by the Civil Survey, that the land satisfactions were made to the soldiers and adventurers, as well as to the other interests afterwards let in by the Acts of Settlement and Explanation."

In the indexing of each barony, a uniform method was adopted throughout. The proprietors were distinguished by separate indexes, that of the English usually coming first, and the Irish next. An index of the lands followed these and, then, an index of "Observations." The place-names, however, in the barony and parish descriptions were not indexed; nor were the personal names referred to in the descriptive particulars relating to the title to lands by descent, through patent or conveyance. A full index will be forthcoming with the complete publication of the text for each county.

The pagination, in one respect, was also uniform. Each page was numbered at the top of the right-hand corner, and the index was based on this pagination. In some baronies, however, there is recorded a second pagination, on alternate pages. It occurs either at the bottom or side of the page, and suggests a reference to the folios in which the first entries may have been made.

As directed, a number of the Commissioners, usually three, attested or certified the survey of each barony. Their names appear at the end, appended to statements certifying how and when the Survey was made. A statement as to the holding of the Courts of Survey, followed by the names of the jurors, precedes the description of each barony in Tipperary. The names of the Limerick jurors "sworn and empanelled to enquire of and return an exact Survey" appear after those of the Commissioners at the end of the baronies. The jurors for County Dublin are described as "the most knowing and sufficient men," though their names are not returned. The jurors for Waterford are described as "the most able and ancient inhabitants of the country." The northern Commissioners certified that the Survey was taken by them, and recorded the date.

When completed, the Civil Survey was to be forwarded to the Surveyor-General, and a duplicate sent to the Registrar for forfeited lands. The former set, according to Mr. Hardinge, unquestionably reached its destination. He refers to the statement of Surveyor-General Stone that it was consumed in the fire of 1711. "This statement implies," says Mr. Hardinge, "that the set was complete, and in this office when the fire occurred, but the statement is inaccurate. A large portion of the set had been removed from the Surveyor-General's office . . . before the close of the year 1667—and was not afterwards restored." He then refers to the discovery, in 1817, by the Irish Record Commissioners, of eighty-four "original Civil Survey Barony Books" in the library of Viscount Headfort, at Kells, County Meath.

The subsequent history of these books is related in the Statement (see page xviii) of Mr. M. J. McEnery, M.R.I.A., Deputy Keeper of Records, and Keeper of State Papers, 1914-1921. Acquired by the Commissioners of Woods, Forests, and Land Revenues, they were deposited in the Quit Rent Office, and ultimately transferred to the Public Record Office. Mr. McEnery points out the importance of this addition to the latter office, where it was available for public inspection. Copies of the volumes were then supplied by the Record Office to the Quit Rent Office. A separate statement shows the counties and baronies which these represent (see page xix).

As to the duplicate set of Civil Survey barony books, destined for the office of the Registrar of Forfeited Lands, Mr. Hardinge says: "The set of barony books, which must be presumed to have reached the office of Registrar of Forfeitures, should have been transferred to the Auditor-General, as the other records of that office were, under the 60th section of the Instructions annexed to the Act of Settlement, about the year 1678; but there exists no evidence whatever from which to infer such a transfer; and I am of opinion that this set of barony books were appropriated antecedently to that year by some person officially, or otherwise, closely connected with the Office of Registrar of Forfeitures; and that at this moment they are reposing in some private library . . ."

The hope expressed in 1862 by Mr. Hardinge, that the publication of his Memoir, on the Manuscript and other Surveys of Ireland, would evoke inquiry, especially in England, may now be renewed.

The legal framework within which the Civil Survey was begun and completed, will now be referred to briefly.

The source of authority for the taking of the Civil Survey, resides in that code of English Acts and Ordinances—passed between the years 1642 and 1653, contemporaneous with the wars begun in Ireland towards the close of 1641. A survey of forfeited lands was contemplated from the outset, and the opening Act of the code prescribed the measure to be taken when the English Parliament should declare the existence of conditions which would permit of the survey being made.⁴ By an Act passed in August, 1652, it was declared that a position had been reached when a settlement of the Irish nation might be effected.⁵ "Early in 1653, when the Commissioners of the Parliament of England, for the affairs of Ireland, felt themselves in a condition to proceed with a survey of the forfeited lands, they had, as a necessary preliminary, to decide upon the manner of its execution. The ancient modes known in law were two:—1st, by inquisition out of the Chancery or Exchequer, after the precedents of the surveys of the Desmond forfeitures; 2nd, by commission under the great seal, after the precedent set by James I, in the survey of the six escheated counties. The latter mode was adopted."⁶ On the 22nd June, 1653, a Commission, with Instructions, under the Great Seal of England⁷ was addressed to Charles Fleetwood, Esq., Lieutenant-General of the Army in Ireland, Edmund Ludlow, Esq., Lieutenant-General of the Horse, Miles Corbet, Esq., and John Jones.⁸ It constituted them Commissioners for putting in execution the instructions, thereto attached, for a perfect survey and admeasurement of various classifications of lands. They were authorised to appoint Surveyors-General, and "Surveyors under them," and "to constitute a fit person of integrity for the Office of Registrar." This Commission, with Instructions, was ratified and confirmed by the Act for the "Satisfaction of Adventurers and Soldiers," passed on the 26th September, 1653.⁹

The Instructions, accompanying this Commission, prescribed the procedure to be followed, and the personnel to be employed in the three surveys directed to be taken, namely, a survey by inquisition, a survey by admeasurement, and what was called a "Gross Survey." Under-Surveyors, to be appointed by the Surveyors-General, were directed "to enquire and find out" the landed interests of the inhabitants, and, also, what were Crown lands and Church lands ; for this purpose they were empowered to hold Courts of Survey. For the survey by admeasurement " persons skilled in the art of surveying " were to be appointed, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, under the warrant of the Surveyors-General.

⁸ Three of these were the Commissioners of the Parliament of England, appointed in 1650, for the purposes of the Civil Government of Ireland. They were then empowered to put in execution in Ireland, all laws, in force in England for "the sequestration of papists' and delinquents' estates." The administration of justice, the encouragement of learning, and the improvement of the revenue were to be the subjects of their consideration. Dunlop: Cal. Doc. No. 1.

On the grounds of the utmost urgency the " Gross Survey," though the last to be named, was directed to be made first, irrespective of what the instructions provided, as to the other surveys. Commissions for this survey were issued, simultaneously, in August, 1653, to the public officers acting as commissioners of revenue, within the fifteen precincts into which the country had been divided. So unsatisfactory, however, were the returns from the Gross Survey,¹⁰ that official directions were given for the taking of abstracts from the Strafford surveys, and such " other papers, returns, or county books " as were available. The Gross Survey continued, however, until the following year, when it was suddenly stopped.¹¹ Then, by an Order dated the 14th April, 1654, addressed to the Surveyor-General, Benjamin Worsley, Esq., the other surveys, authorised by the Commission, with Instructions, of 22nd June, 1653, were directed to be begun.¹²

The initial proceeding under this Order would appear to have been the consideration of the instructions to be issued for the making of the Civil Survey, and the Survey by admeasurement. A Committee was appointed for the purpose, by the General Council of Officers, and it reported on the 11th May, 1654.¹³ This report was mainly concerned with the principles and the methods to be adopted and followed in the admeasurement of estates and their surrounds. As to the Civil Survey, the procedure had been already fully indicated by the Instructions of June, 1653, and the Committee then added nothing to these save a recommendation on the subject of the Courts of Survey. For " their better performance," the Committee advised that the instructions to be issued should be directed to the " Commissioners of Revenue upon the place " or " other able and knowing men in the country." Whether by virtue of this recommendation or not, Commissions, with Instructions, began to be addressed, in the following month, to sets of Commissioners for each county in Ireland, excepting the counties of Clare, Galway, Mayo, Roscommon, and Sligo. With regard to these counties " the Strafford survey, then extant, contained as specific an account of the lands, their proprietors and possessors, as any new work of the kind could do." ¹⁴

The sequence in which the Commissions, with Instructions, were sent to the local Commissioners was based on the priority of the appropriations of the counties of Ireland specified in the Act of Satisfaction of September, 1653. Ten counties, in the first place, were set aside for the satisfaction of the Adventurers and Soldiers, and the earliest Commissions, with Instructions, were issued in respect of these counties. Fortunately, specimens have been preserved and are reproduced (see page xiii). It is from the examination of these that the magnitude of the Civil Survey will be learned.

Within this legal framework, the Civil Survey was begun. The last date of which there is any record for the issue of a Commission is the 1st September, 1656, for county Monaghan. Eighteen Commissions were issued in 1654, covering the same number of counties. There is strong evidence to support the opinion that the survey of these was completed before the summer of 1655, and a statement by Mr. Hardinge on this point will be quoted presently. Two-thirds of the work would, therefore, have been completed in about twelve months. For the remaining nine counties, seven Commissions were issued between 1655 and 1656; the Commissions for two counties—Cavan and Fermanagh, have not been found. While no definite date can be assigned for the completion of the Civil Survey, the year 1656 may be said to have witnessed the issue of the final Commissions under which its far-reaching enquiries were made.

It has already been stated that in more than one of the Commissions, the Surveys to be taken were distinctly named "The Civil Survey."¹⁵ This is the specific and official appellation. Mapped admeasurements, contemporaneous with the Civil Survey, were at times also brought within this designation. "It was the unsatisfactory nature of the survey taken under this Order—the so-called Civil Survey—which led Petty to offer to undertake a more exact admeasurement of the forfeited lands in Ireland."¹⁶ This Order has been previously noticed. It was the Order dated 14th April 1654 which, on the failure of the Gross Survey, directed the taking of the other surveys authorised in June 1653. In pursuance of this Order, and by virtue of the Act of September 1653, two distinct sets of instructions were issued: one to the local Commissioners, for the taking of the Civil Survey, and the other, some time later, to the surveyors who were to admeasure the forfeited lands, according to certain rules. The Report of the Committee appointed "to consider the business of the Surveys," dated September 24th, 1654, clearly shows that it was the considered inadequacy of these rules that led to Petty's proposals "for a more exact admeasurement."¹⁷ The Civil Survey had been placed in other hands four months previously, and proceeded to a conclusion, in the manner first appointed, as what has survived of it definitely attests. Neither in authorship nor correction can Petty be identified distinctly with it. Rather his total dependence on the Civil Survey is a distinguishing feature of its history.

The Instructions to the Local Commissioners directed that out of the surveys taken, abstracts containing the names of lands, and their boundaries, should be delivered to those authorized to make the admeasurements. Petty's contract of the 11th, December 1654, left this procedure undisturbed.¹⁸ But time was the essence of this contract, so far as Dr. Petty was concerned. He had contracted to perform the work of admeasurement "within one year and one month next" after the date of his agreement. Immediately pressure began to be employed for one return or another. On the 20th December, it was ordered "that all commissioners which are employed in the civil survey do take care with all speed to furnish Dr. Petty or his assigns, with the abstracts of all the forfeited lands in each county and barony . . . to the end the said Dr. may be directed unto all and every of the said lands to be surveyed by him."¹⁹ On the 25th December, the "Committee touching the manner of Surveys" requested the Lord Deputy to obtain from the Committee "for the Civil Survey" an estimate of all the forfeited lands both profitable and unprofitable.²⁰ On the 12th February following a further Order was issued: "Ordered, that it be referred to the committee for removing obstructions in the surveys undertaken by Dr. Petty, to meet . . . and consider of the proceedings of the commissioners for the civil survey, and how the con-cealements of lands may be remedied, how far the present surveys may be of use, and what course is to be taken for having true and full civil surveys returned to remain of record for public use. And they are to treat with the commissioners-general concerning abstracts to be given of the civil survey." ²¹ The explanation of the urgency that had arisen is manifest from Dr. Petty's "Humble Remonstrance concerning his extraordinary Grievances": ²²

"And first" he complained "your petitioner sheweth that through the backwardness of the Civil Survey, and want of abstracts, he was exceedingly damnified. At first, that having none at all ready at the first sealing of his contract hee, notwithstanding, out of zeale to promote the service sett out sixty instruments to enquire of the country, which proved soe confused, as that the whole charge of what was done untill the latter end of February was wholly lost." That Dr. Petty required more than abstracts is evident from the continued expression of his grievances, thus:

"Ffor want of the bookes of the Civil Survey your petitioner hath been often put to the trouble and charge of two or three admeasurements instead of one." And, finally, he complained: "Your petitioner after long sollicitation finding noe hopes of having the civil survey of the countyes of Carlow and Wicklow, hath notwithstanding adventured to survey and measure them . . . to the end of the season for doing the same might not slipp and bee lost, to the prejudice of the Commonwealth and the Army." In whatever quarter the delay may have rested, it can scarcely be ascribed to those charged with the taking and attesting of the Civil Survey. That, for the County Tipperary, for example, was completed, with the exception of two baronies, before the end of October 1654, two months before the signing of Dr. Petty's contract. This will be seen from the separate statement on this county (see page xi). According to Mr. Hardinge, who had all the records at his disposal, "the Civil Survey of most of the baronies included within the said articles (Petty's agreement) was returned . . . before March 1655, and many of them before the date of Petty's articles of undertaking; so that no impediment interposed to prevent his making an immediate commencement of the admeasurement and mapping work." This certainly clears the jurors and local commissioners. It may be pointed out, however, that the Civil Survey was required for another purpose at this time. In the same month that Dr. Petty's agreement was made—December 1654, Commissioners, commonly called the Athlone Commissioners, were appointed in connection with the Transplantation proceedings. "As the whole nation was declared guilty of rebellion, it lay on each claimant to prove the extent and nature of his estate. To check the claimants the Commissioners were furnished with, amongst other books, the Civil Survey." ²³

Whatever may have been the cause of the "backwardness" of which Dr. Petty complained, his "grievances" may be interpreted, perhaps, as being amongst the earliest tributes to the Civil Survey. It is to be apprehended, however, that if some of the surveys were to prove less informative in descriptive detail, than others, the deficiency was to be related to the pressure residential either in Petty's contractual obligations for the performance of his own survey, or in the requirements of "The Court of the Commissioners for the Claims and Qualifications of the Irish."

²The Civil Survey of Tipperary.

THE Civil Survey of Tipperary was made under the authority of a Commission, with Instructions, dated 2nd June, 1654. Though the Commission and Instructions are not available, specimens of those issued for another county have been preserved and are included in this volume (see p. xiii). The county for which a Commission and Instructions have survived was, with county Tipperary, amongst the ten counties reserved by the Act of 26th September, 1653, for the particular purpose therein specified. It may be presumed that the terms of the Commission and Instructions, for each of the ten counties, were alike. The priority to be observed in the making of the civil survey of the territorial divisions of each of the ten counties, including Tipperary, was regulated by an Order, dated 14th April, 1654,¹ directed to the Surveyor-General, and by the Instructions to the local commissioners, dated 2nd June, 1654. The baronies forming one of the two moieties into which each of the ten counties had been divided, by allotment, on the 24th January, 1654, were to be surveyed first, namely, the baronies comprising the soldiers' moieties. The allotments in Tipperary resulted in the following division: (1) the baronies and territories of "Kilnamanagh, Kilnalong (-hurty), Upper Ormond, Lower Ormond, Owey and Arra, Owey-Mulrain, Slieveardagh and Comsy" (Soldiers): (2) the baronies of "Middlethird, Clanwilliam, Iffa and Offa, Eliogarty, Ikerrin and Ileagh" (Adventurers).² With the exception of Owey-Mulrain in (1) a distinct civil survey was made of the foregoing baronies and territories, each volume being returned to Dublin, attested as directed by the Instructions.

The territory of Owey-Mulrain was included in the Civil Survey of the barony of Arra and Owey where, in the description of that barony, the following statement is made: "This Barony is and hath been antiently divided into two distinct Terytories the one called by the name of Arra or Dowgharra, the other called Oowny āls Oowny-Mulryan, The Territory of Arra being the North pte of the Barrony, and the Territory of Oowny the South."

In accordance with the Commission and Instructions, Courts of Survey were held for the foregoing baronies and territories, distinct juries, save in two instances, being appointed for the making of the civil survey of each barony. The exceptions were Ikerin and Eliogurty where the survey of both baronies—described in the text as half baronies, were made by the same jurors; many of the jurors for the territories of Kilnemanagh and Kilnalonghurty bear the one name. The names of the jurors for each barony or territory, were recorded after a statement, with which the survey opens, reciting where and when the Court of Survey was held. The addresses and descriptions of the jurors are also given, though in some instances the names only are returned. In pursuance of the Instructions, the civil survey was attested usually, by three of the commissioners, and their names appear at the end of each barony.

It may be pointed out that courts of survey for several baronies were held at the one place. At Nenagh, situate in the barony of Lower Ormond, they were held for that barony, for the territory of Ileagh, for the barony of Arra and Owny and for the barony of Upper Ormond; at Thurles, situate in Eliogurty, they were held for that barony, for the barony of Ikerin and for the territory of Kilnamanagh; at Clonmel, they were held for the barony of Iffa and Offa, and for the territory of Kilnalonghurty; at Fethard, for the baronies of Middlethird, and Slieveardagh and Comsy. The Court of Survey for Clanwilliam barony was held at Cashel which is in the adjoining barony of Middlethird. The Courts of Survey for Church and Crown lands, within the foregoing baronies and territories, were held at the same place, as those appointed for the other lands, with one exception. The Court of Survey for the Church lands of the territory of Kilnamanagh was held at Cashel, while that for the temporal lands was held at Thurles. While, as a rule, the courts of survey for the various classifications of land were held at the same places, they were not always held on the same date. According to the dates recorded in the statements with which the civil survey, of this county, open and conclude, the Courts of Survey for Church and Crown lands, in certain baronies, preceded those for the remaining lands in the respective baronies.

The civil survey of ten of the twelve baronies and territories, which then comprised the county of Tipperary, was completed, according to the dates of the commissioners' attestations, within four months of the date of the Commission and Instructions issued in June 1654. The two remaining baronies were attested in February of the following year. Over 160 jurors were engaged in the survey of the county.

The original commissioners appointed were: Solomon Richards, Henry Paris, Charles Blunt, Francis Vaughan, and Robert Thornhill. Two commissioners were subsequently added in the persons of John Booker and Felix Longe.

Distinct civil surveys were made of corporate towns. Only one, however,—for this county, is in the Quit Rent Office collection—that of the town of Clonmel. It describes the boundaries of the town and lands within the liberties, and recites the provisions of a Charter of 1608. The names of the burgesses who were proprietors of lands are given, together with an account of the property of the corporation. The names of the jurors, twelve in number, are recorded with their descriptions. Three commissioners attested the making of the survey, under date of 9th August, 1655. That the actual survey of the town would appear to have been made some months prior to this date is suggested by a reference in the Civil Survey for the barony of Iffa and Offa, which was attested on the 21st February 1654-5, thus: "Note that within this circumference of this Barony is the Toune of Clonmell with the Burgage lands within the Lyberties thereof The Meares and Bounds whereof distinct from the lands of this Barony are sett forth by themselves in the Booke of Survey of that Towne and lands as alsoe the Towne and burgage lands of Carrickny—Shewer being a Corporation distinct from the Barony."

The Commissioners were instructed to have each survey "ingrossed in one or more books" and "to retorne the same attested . . ." with a duplicate. The engrossments of the survey of the town of Clonmel may not have been prepared when the foregoing statement was made in the course of the description of the barony of Iffa and Offa.

As to the corporate town of Carrick-on-Suir, there is no civil survey of it in the Quit Rent Office collection.

Many towns of the county, however, will be found referred to in the civil survey of the baronies, where particulars are given as to ownership, and as to fairs and markets. Information required, under this head, should be looked for in the opening descriptions of baronies and parishes.

Commission for Surveying of Lands.¹

THE said commissioners,² by vertue of the authority and trust comitted unto them in and by one Act of Parliament,³ entituled, "An Act for the speedy and effectuall Satisfaction of the Adventurers for Lands in Ireland, and of the Arreares due to the Souldiery there, and of other publique Debts," do hereby authorize and appoint⁴ Henry Waddington, James Shane, Henry Greenoway, and Sebastian Brigham, Esqrs., or any three or more of them, to hold and keep one or more courts of survey, for inquiring and finding of out all and every the honors, baronies, castles, mannors, messuages, lands, tenements, rents, annuities, reversions, remainders, possessions, and other hereditaments whatsoever, which at any time since the twenty-third day of October, in the year 1641, did belong unto any person or persons, whose lands upon the said 23rd day of October were, or at any time since are forfeited to the Commonwealth by vertue of an Act of Parliament, entituled, "An Act for the speedy and effectual Reducing of the Rebels in his Majestie's Kingdome of Ireland to their due Obedience to his Majestie and the Crown of England,"⁵ or by any other Act or Acts of Parliament,⁶ and likewise to inquire of and find out all such honors, baronies, castles, manors, lands, tenements, rents and hereditaments belonging unto the Crown in the year 1630, or at any time since; and also to inquire of and find out all honors, baronies, castles, mannors, lands, tenements, rents, or other hereditaments, lately belonging to any archbishop, bishop, dean, dean and chapter, or other officer belonging to that hierarchy in Ireland, in the right of his archbishoprick, bishoprick, deanery, or office aforesaid, within any of the baronies of Kilkeny, Rathconrath, Demifoore, Moyashell or Moycashell, Moygoish, Corkerry, Delvin, Ffarbill, territory of Birrawny, lands of Moydrum, within the county of Westmeath, together with all houses, edifices, timber, woods, mines, and other appurtenances belonging to all and every the premises within the county and places aforesaid; and to survey the same and make returne thereof distinctly by themselves, that is to say, fforfeited lands, with the appurtenances, by themselves; Crown lands, with the appurtenances by themselves; and lands belonging to the said hierarchy, by themselves. In the holding and keeping of which courts of survey, the said Henry Waddington, &c., or any three or more of them, are hereby authorized and required to send for such persons as they shall judge any way able to informe them concerning the premisses to come before them, and examine the said persons, upon oath, for the better discovery of what they know in and about the said premises. And it is further ordered, that in making returns of the said survey the said Henry Waddington, &c., doe observe and put in execution the instructions hereunto annexed; and that before they doe act anything by vertue of this commission, they doe take the oath ensuing, viz.: "You shall faithfully promise and swear, in the presence of the great and mighty God, that you shall well and truly execute the power and trust to you committed, by vertue of this commission and instructions, according to the best of your skill and knowledge." And the said Henry Waddington and James Shane are to administer the said oath each unto other. And they, or any one or more of them, having so taken the said oath, are hereby authorized to administer the same unto the rest of the persons hereby appointed for the execution of this commission and instructions, as aforesaid

DATED AT DUBLIN, THE 2ND OF JUNE, 1654.

Instructions to be observed by Henry Wadington, James Shane, Henry Greenoway, and Sebastian Brigham, Esqrs., in the Holding and Keeping of Courts of Survey of the Honors, Baronies, Castles, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, in and by the annexed Commission given them in Charge to survey, and in the surveying of the same accordingly.

You are forthwith, upon receipt of your commission, to meet in some convenient place within the said county, to take the oath prescribed in your said commission, for the due execution of the trust thereby comitted unto you, and to consider in what barony or place you shall judge it most convenient to appoint the first court of survey to bee kept, in order to the prosecution of your said commission, and accordingly to appoint time and place for that end. And for the more effectual performance of the said service, you are authorized to adjourne from time to time, and from place to place, in such manner as you shall judge to bee most conducible to the speedy and effectuall discharge of the said work. And in the first place you are to survey, according to the tenor of your commission and these instructions, the baronies of Clonlownan, Moycashell, Moygoish, Corkerry, Delvin, Ffarbill, territory of Birawny, and lands of Moydrum adjoyning thereunto, being the baronies that are fallen by lot to the souldiery within the said county.⁷

You are with all convenient speed to enter into and upon all and every the honors, baronies, mannors, castles, messuages, and other the lands, tenements, and hereditaments whatsoever mentioned in your commission, lying within the said county of Westmeath. And by your oathes of good and lawfull men, and by all other lawfull wayes and meanes, you are to inquire and find out the premisses, and every of them, with their and every of their appurtenances. And you are to view and survey the same, or cause the same to be viewed and surveyed, so as the premisses and every of them may (either by your own view, or by the view and testimony of good and lawfull persons, upon oath) bee certainly, distinctly, and entirely known from other lands, by their respective qualities, quantities, or number of acres by estimation (according to one and twenty foot to the perch, and one hundred and sixty perches to the acre), also by their names, scituacion, parish, or place where the same doe lye, with their respective meets and bounds ; the bogs, woods, and barren mountains, belonging to the respective premisses, or any of them, being mentioned, and the quantity thereof estimated and distinguished from the profitable lands in the said survey. And for the better execution of your said commission, you are, as often as you see cause, to summon one or more juries, and to give them in charge to inquire and find out all and every the particulars of these instructions, and to cause such juries, when and as often as you shall judge it necessary, to view and tread the meets and bounds of the premisses, and to forme all such other matters and things as are perfectly inquirable in courts of survey, as you shall give the same in charge unto them.

You are, by the like waies and meanes, to inquire of and find out the true yearly value of the premisses, and of every of them, as the same were lett for, or worth to be lett, in the year 1640, or at any time before ; and also what part of the premisses are chargeable with any pious and charitable use or uses ; and also to inquire of and survey, or cause to bee surveyed, the buildings, houses, edifices, timber, woods, open quarries, or mines, upon the premisses,—and to make true and particular returns of the same in your bookes of survey.

You are to call before you all such persons as now are, or formerly have been, stewards, bayliffs, reeves, or collectors of rents, issues, revenues, or profits of the premises, or any part thereof ; and likewise all such persons as now are, or formerly have been, tenants of the premises, or any part thereof, and also such other persons as you conceive may best know the premisses, or any of them, or as many of the said persons as you can conveniently summon to appear before you, and to examine them upon oath concerning the meets and bounds of the premisses, and concerning the rents, issues, profits, valuations, royalties, perquisites of courts, tythes, or impropriations, rights, titles, and other emoluments unto the premisses, or any of them, belonging or appertaining, or held, or enjoyed with the same, as parte, parcell, or member thereof, or appendant to the same, together with their and every of their particular values, which you are distinctly to returne in your bookes of survey as aforesaid.

You are further strictly to inquire and examine as aforesaid what court-rolls rentalls, bookes of survey, books of accompts, or what other records, evidences, or writings touching every the premises, or any part of them, any of the said persons have come to the knowledge of ; and where and in whose custody the same do remayne ; which said court-rolls, rentalls, bookes of accompt, or other records, evidences, and writings, you are to demand and receive into your custody.

In returning your survey of any honors, mannors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, belonging to the Crown, or to archbishops, bishops, deans, deans and chapters, or other officers belonging to that hierarchy, you are particularly to inquire, by your waies and meanes aforesaid, what leases are in being of any part of the said last-mentioned premisses, when the same did respectively commence, for what terme granted, to whom the same were so granted, what rents and other duties were reserved thereupon, who are the present tenants of such lands so granted, and in whose right they hold the same, and when and from whom such right is or hath been made over unto them, or unto the persons for or from whom they hold the same respectively.

In case you find variance in the evidence which shall be given, touching the extent or valuation of the premisses, or any part of them, or any other particular given in charge, and if the said variation or difference bee considerable, or if you conceive the evidence to differ from truth to the prejudice of the Commonwealth, or any other person, you are in those cases, as well by your own view as by such other good waies and meanes as you judge fitt, to informe yourselves of the truth in such particulars, and to certify as well the said evidence at large as your own judgment touching those particulars, with the reasons inducing you to vary from such evidence.

Where you shall find no possibility, by reason of the wastnes or depopulation of the country, to make so particular a survey as is directed, or to inform yourselves so exactly of the meets, bounds, or other certenties of the premisses, or any of them as is before required, you are in such cases to use your best wayes and meanes you can for the discovery of all and every the particulars herein given you in charge, and to certify upon all such particulars the manner of your proceedings, and the causes why you cannot returne the said survey of them according to the instructions given you.

And because it is required that the quantity or number of acres contained in the premisses, and in every part or parcell of them, should be distinctly and particularly admeasured, you are, therefore, out of the survey taken by you of the premisses, and every part of the same, to cause an abstract to bee drawn, containing the names of all and every such parcells of land as shall bee by you surveyed in every respective barony, according to the tenor of your commission, with their respective bounds and meets, and the parishes or places where the same do respectively lie, not mentioning the quantity or value of the same ; and the said abstract so drawn you are to deliver to such persons as shall be authorized and commissioned to admeasure the same. In which abstract you are to distinguish which of the said lands are forfeited lands, and also which lands are Crown lands, and which lands are lands lately belonging to any archbishop, bishop, dean, dean and chapter, or other officers of that hierarchy, to the end the same may be distinctly admeasured, and distinct plotts returned of the same.

And for the better assistance of the said persons who shall be appointed to admeasure the premisses, or any part of them, you are hereby authorized and required, by warrants under your hand, to appoint (out of the inhabitants of the said county) such and so many fitt persons as shall be judged necessary to attend the said surveyors in admeasuring of the premisses, or any parts thereof, for to show and tread out the meets and bounds of any of the said lands respectively ; and also to informe and make known, as often as there shall be occasion, the meets of the several baronies and parishes, and the course that the said meets and bounds doe runne.

And for the more full and better discovery of the interest of the Commonwealth in or out of lands in the said county, you are futher authorized and appointed to inquire what other lands in any of the baronies aforesaid are claymed by any English or Protestants, how meared, scituate, and bounded, and in what parishes or places respectively the said lands doe lye, what number of acres such lands so claymed do respectively conteine by estimation, according to the measure of 21 ffoot to the pole, and 160 poles to the acre ; what leases, annuities, rents or other profits are made off, or is issuing, or of right ought to issue out of the same to the Commonwealth in right of any person or persons who have forfeited their interests in the same to the Commonwealth ; which you are likewise to return in your survey, therein setting down the particular yearly values of every such lease, annuity, rent, or other profit.

Having finished the survey of every the said baronies within the said county according to the aforementioned rules and instructions given you, you are to cause the same to bee fairly ingrossed in one or more bookes, setting down the survey of each barony by itself, and to return the same, attested under your hands, or the hands of any three or more of you, together with this commission and instructions, close sealed up, to the surveyor-generall, and a duplicate thereof, in like manner fairly ingrossed, attested, and sealed up, to the register for forfeited lands in Ireland,—at Dublin, together with all records, evidences, and writings which shall come to your hands concerning the premisses or any part of them. In the returne, transcription, or making up of which survey, or in any other thing relating to the premisses, you are further to observe such instructions as shall bee sent you by the said commissioners of the Commonwealth, or by the surveyor-generall.

You are to use all expedition in the execution of the aforementioned instructions, that the service of the Commonwealth may not bee retarded thereby; and for the more effectuall performance of the severall duties herein directed, you are hereby authorized to imploy such and so many persons under you for writing, ingrossing, and transcribing of such dispositions, surveys, and duplicates, as you are to take and returne by vertue of the above said commission, and to give to each of them such allowance as you shall think fit, provided no unnecessary or immoderate charge bee contracted thereby upon the Commonwealth; and that no one person receive for his paines in writing or transcribing the dispositions and surveys as aforesaid above the rate of twenty shillings per week.

Lastly, you are not without speciall lycense or order in writing from the said commissioners to discover to any person the particular values, extent, or the like certainties of the premisses to bee by you surveyed, according to this commission, other then what was before directed to such as shall bee appointed to admeasure any part of the said premisses, nor to keep any coppies of the same with your selves or with any of those that shall bee employed by you.

Note on the MSS. Materials for the Civil Survey of 1654-56.

(Public Record Office and Quit Rent Office, Ireland).

In the Headfort Collection of Records purchased by the Commissioners of Woods, Forests and Land Revenues of the Crown in 1837 there were several volumes (portion of a complete set) of the Civil Survey made of certain counties of Ireland in the year 1654-5: these volumes were then deposited in their Quit Rent Office, Dublin.

This Quit Rent Office collection of Survey Books included all the barony volumes for the counties of Donegal, Limerick, Londonderry, Meath, Tipperary, Tyrone, Waterford, Dublin (except Newcastle and Uppercross), Kildare (except Ophaley), and Wexford (except Forth). Detailed lists of these barony volumes are given in a Report on the Headfort Collection, printed in the Reports of the Irish Record Commissioners, Vol. II, pp. 21-24.

The Civil Survey was undertaken for seventeen other counties; but it would appear that any Surveys for these counties perished in the fire in the Surveyor-General's Office in 1711. (Essex Street, Dublin).

The Civil Survey consists of Returns of the extent and value of the forfeited lands. It contains very many facts not noted in the particulars and tables accompanying the subsequent mapped Down Survey which was throughout facilitated by the Abstracts made from the Civil Survey.

The Commissioners of Woods, Forests and Land Revenues, at the instance of Mr. J. Harper Scaife, the Superintendent of their Dublin Office, offered this Quit Rent Office Collection of Civil Survey Volumes to the Public Record Office of Ireland, on condition that copies of these Volumes should be prepared in the Public Record Office and furnished to them for constant use in the Quit Rent Office, Dublin.

Mr. James Mills, Deputy Keeper of the Records, gladly accepted the offer. Copies were prepared at the Public Record Office during the years 1900-1910, fresh batches of Civil Survey volumes being deposited there after copies of volumes in the previous batch had been furnished to the Quit Rent Office. By the close of 1910, this work was completed; all the original Civil Survey Books were deposited in the Public Record Office, and copies of them, as stipulated, had been furnished to the Quit Rent Office.

The Quit Rent Office also received a copy of an official copy of the Civil Survey of the barony of Clanmorris, Co. Kerry, presented to the Public Record Office during the above period; the original Survey is not forthcoming.

These Volumes were a very important addition to the Records of the Land Settlement under the Commonwealth already in the Public Record Office. They were then available for public inspection, with every facility. They were highly useful as regards local history and as to certain questions of title. They were specially valuable for topography, the Surveys of some counties being particularly rich in boundary names and place names now often obsolete, or till now unknown.

The principal reason for their transfer was that Records of such value ought to be deposited in the Public Record Office. There they perished in the Summer of 1922.

Happily the Civil Survey copies furnished to the Quit Rent Office, and now deposited there, substantially counter-balance that loss; some of them were compared with the originals by Mr. James Mills, then Deputy-Keeper of the Records, and the remainder by the writer of this Note, then Certifying Officer. All may be accepted as true and authentic copies of the originals destroyed in the year 1922.

Note on Church Lands.

WITH this volume is concluded the Civil Survey of Tipperary. The origin and purpose of the Survey, its remarkable features and contents, are explained and summarised in the Introduction (pp. iii-xii). This note is concerned with the requirements of the Commission for the Surveying of Lands² in respect of Church lands.³ Not only was a separate return of such lands to be made, but full particulars of any leases that were in being, the rent, term and the names of the tenants were to be given. Crown lands, likewise, were to be returned "distinctly by themselves," though, here, the wide information required in respect of Church lands was not called for. Tipperary Church and Crown lands, so far as they could be ascertained, were returned in the manner directed, and constitute the text of the separate section at page 357. Throughout this return, relating almost entirely to Church lands, the statement will be met, however, that the full particulars required, in respect of such lands, could not be obtained. While, where found, the names of the lessees are given, neither the term of years, nor the rent is recorded.

The existing social upheaval would, in itself, have been an obstacle making almost impossible the full return required by the Commission. This, however, was not the main difficulty. For a variety of reasons, arising from antecedent causes, confusion already existed as to what were or were not actually Church lands. This confusion was, in the first place, the outcome of proceedings incident to the enactment of laws⁴ more than a hundred years previous: "Principally owing to ignorance as to the lands and rights of the Church which prevailed for many years after the Reformation, both among the Surveyors and lawyers employed, it was found that when large grants were made by the Crown to various lay proprietors in many cases the ancient patrimony of the bishoprics themselves had been unintentionally granted away so that the Church was left almost totally unendowed."⁵ The position thus set out was remedied to some extent, however, by Royal Grants in the reigns of James I., and Charles I. Bishop Bramhall in a letter, of the year 1638-9, to Archbishop Laud wrote: "I offer you an account of the present prosperous estate of the Church of Ireland with a particular Catalogue of such lands, tythes, rents and revenues as have been gained out of the hands of unjust usurpers."⁶

Another cause of hindrance to the full return, and the very essence of the problem, was the liberty at common law enjoyed by ecclesiastical persons and corporations to lease and alienate without limit Church lands.⁷ "The result of this state of the law was that the Church property in Ireland was improvidently leased and often wholly alienated."⁸ It was not until the year 1634-5 that this power of leasing and alienating without limit was taken away by Act of Parliament.⁹ That a further cause of difficulty was to be experienced, in ascertaining particulars of such land and leases, is clear from a Commission¹⁰ of the same year as that for the Civil Survey, though independent of it:

"Whereas the possessions, rents & revenues belonging to the late archbishops, bishops, deans, deans & chapters & other persons belonging to that Hierarchy within this nation are devolved & come into the actual possession of the Commonwealth, which by being dispersed (in several parts of this nation) into the hands of very many persons, the same are in great danger to be concealed & converted to private uses, if timely course be not had & taken for the prevention thereof, & it is therefore ordered by the Lord Deputy and Council that Dr. Henry Jones, & Dr. John Harding be, & they are hereby authorised jointly & severally to use all good ways & means for the inquiry into all the possessions, rents & revenues in Ireland belonging to the said archbishops, bishops, deans, deans & chapters & other persons aforesaid."

The opinion may be ventured that, in these circumstances, and in view of the demands for the urgent completion of the Civil Survey, the return of all the particulars required was impracticable. Conditions, however, were more propitious at the Restoration, for the discovery of Church lands, and with its records, of a retrospective nature, the Civil Survey, it is suggested, should be collated. The Acts of Settlement & Explanation,¹¹ the Grants of land they authorised, & the Book of Distribution¹² for Tipperary must be consulted. The Act of Settlement having declared that the lands, rents and revenues, of which the ecclesiastical persons specified had been dispossessed, "through the fury & violence of the late times," should be restored to them, provided for a measure of immediate restitution. Out of the lands belonging to such ecclesiastical persons, which had been by them granted or conveyed in fee-farm subject to a rent, a proportion should be allotted for their support and maintenance.¹³ Full particulars were then available, it is to be inferred, of such lands.¹⁴ The Act of Explanation is even more explicit:

"That the Commissioners for the execution of this Act do forthwith set out and allot . . . unto the archbishops and bishops in the said former act named . . . such augmentations and allowances and out of such lands as were formerly held, or reputed to be held, in fee-farm of any archbishop, bishop . . . or other ecclesiastical person in his or their politick capacity, under the reservation of any chiefry, rent or other duty or service." ¹⁵

Happily, abstracts of the Grants, made in pursuance of these provisions, are available,¹⁶ while the lands which they passed in Tipperary will be found set out in the Book of Distribution in the baronies of Clanwilliam, Middlethird and Iffa & Offa. The conflict between the main text of the Civil Survey, where lay proprietors are returned as the owners in fee of such lands,¹⁷ and these Grants, might be resolved, in a measure, from Inquisitions,¹⁸ and Rentals.

The discovery of Glebe lands was a problem no less difficult to the Civil Survey jurors. As the text of the separate section shows, these were sometimes so scattered that they could not be bounded, & there are textual notes to the effect that Glebes had been discovered since the Return of the Hierarchy lands had been sent in. The main text of the Civil Survey also takes in Glebes.¹⁹ At page 29, of Volume I, under the Parish of Roscrea, for example, the nil return is at once qualified by the statement "as we are informed." Here, again, the Book of Distribution must be consulted.²⁰ On the other hand, the Civil Survey, over numerous parishes, sets down Glebe lands, that are not returned in the Book of Distribution.

It remains to direct attention to a Royal Commission & Award of 1606 which joined to the County of the Cross of Tipperary the district of Dough Arra or "Mac Briens Country," forming the major portion of the barony of Arra and Owny at page 133 of this volume, and described by the Civil Survey as being the north part of that barony. The territory of Dough Arra was adjacent to Killaloe, and bordered on the Liberty and Cross of Tipperary and the counties of Clare and Limerick, to none of which, prior to 1606, could it be said to belong. It represented, substantially, the area

These, consisting of three quarto volumes for Tipperary, contain Inquisitions for Church lands & religious houses and refer to various families—the O'Meaghers, O'Kennedys, O'Briens, O'Dwyers, O'Hogans, Butlers, Walshes, Mac Egans, Ryans, Moclers, O'Heffernans &c., &c. See, also, in the same Collections three volumes of "Extracts" from various sources—Irish, Latin and English, including Harris, Ware's Bishops, Liber Regalis Visitationis, Archdall's, Monasticon, Chronicon Sanctorum, &c., &c.

²⁰ The Book of Distribution for this parish returns: "Abby Land in Roscrea 40A : 2R : 16P." "Gleabe of the same 5A : 2R." "Another Gleabe of the same 1A : 1R : 24P"—described as Church land. No return is made, for this parish, in the separate text of the Civil Survey relating to Church lands. These glebes are shown, in the Book of Distribution, as existing in 1641, but in wider investigations, section 110 of the Act of Settlement must be borne in mind "That out of every hundred acres forfeited to His Majesty, which are not yet actually distributed, two acres shall be allowed & set apart for glebe in every parish, barony & county . . ."

north, and north-west, of the Keeper Mountains, indicated on the map published with this volume, & included the modern parishes of Castletownarra, Youghalarra, Burgesbeg, Templeachally, Kilmastulla, and part of the united parishes of Killoscully and Killcomonty. The Royal Commission and Award effecting the union of this Territory—for administrative purposes, with the Cross of Tipperary, is reprinted as “an Historical document of interest” at page 33 of the Appendix to the Fifth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records (1873).

“Cross Tipperary” was so called, according to Sir John Davies,²¹ because “all the lands within the precincts thereof were either the demesnes of the Archbishop of Cashel, or holden of that See, or else belonging to Abbeys or houses of religion and so the land as it were dedicated to the Cross of Christ.” It has also been described²² as being composed of “towns, villages, and townlands scattered through the various baronies of the County Tipperary.” Subsequent to 1606, when the territory of Dough Arra was united to it, the County of the Cross comprised, therefore, that territory plus these towns, villages, and townlands. Some of these are disclosed by the Royal Commission and Award which recites that the Commissioners had called before them a “Jury of the County of the Crosse of Tipary” returned “by the Sheriff of the said County at Cashel within the said County.” Starting with Cashel, as thus referred to, the addresses of the Jury will be a guide, therefore, to some of the areas of Cross Tipperary. The Jury consisted of Edmond Butler of Mullenony, Edmond Butler of Clogcully, John Phelan of Fethard, John Keating of Moorestown, Eustace English of Rahin, James Prendergast of Rathogally, Thomas Stapleton of Leynestown, Gregory Mocler of Ballyclerighane, John Heffernan of Lattin, James Meagher of Burdensgrange, James Heden, and James Woodlock of Fethard, and Edmond Mocler of Bwollynattin—all described as gentlemen or burgesses. To this list may be added the names & addresses of the representatives, in Parliament, of the Cross of Tipperary: Edmond Prendergast of Newcastle (Parliament of 1585); Thomas Laffan of Cregstowne (1613) and Geoffrey Mockler of Dracoasland (1634).²³ But it is to the separate section of the Civil Survey, where Church lands, as in 1640, so far as they could be ascertained, are set out, that reference must be made for an expansive view of the extent of the County of the Cross of Tipperary. With it, as already pointed out, the Book of Distribution should be consulted.

Counties of the Cross owed their origin to the Palatine²⁴ system wherein the Earl of a County was Lord of all the land in his shire that was not Church land.²⁵ The existence of eight Sheriffs of the Cross in Ireland at one time would be the corollary to the creation of a similar number of Counties Palatine.²⁶ “All these appear upon record," wrote Sir John Davies in 1612, "and were all as ancient as the time of King John." At that date only one Palatinate remained, the County Palatine of Tipperary,²⁷ and to this fact was due the survival of Cross Tipperary as the last of the Counties of the Cross.²⁸

In their Introduction to the Calendar of State Papers, Ireland, 1606-8 (page xx), the Editors—Rev. C. W. Russell, D.D., and Mr. J. P. Prendergast, described the privileges and jurisdictions of the Counties of the Cross: "We find that in each of these several Counties palatine there were certain districts called Croceae, or 'Cross-lands' being Church or monastery lands which were exempt from the lords palatine rule, and in which a double jurisdiction prevailed—one of the bishop or abbot, the other of the Crown; so that in the Cross lands were commonly found co-existent two sets of officers, sheriffs, coroners, etc., one appointed by the Church and the other by the Crown. Such were the 'Cross' of Tipperary, of Kilkenny, of Ulster, of Ferns, of Navan, of Carlow, of Wexford, of Kerry of Meath & several others."

Sir John Davies gives a succinct account of the regalities of the Counties Palatine.²⁹ In these the King's writ did not run "but only in the Church lands lying within the same which were called the Cross, wherein the King made a sheriff . . . And so at this day the Earl of Ormond maketh a sheriff of the Liberty, and the King a sheriff of the Cross of Tipperary." Some years earlier, in 1606, in his account of the Munster circuit,³⁰ the Attorney-General had reported on the County of the Cross of Tipperary, explaining its origin,³¹ why so-called—this has been quoted already, and commenting on its extent:

"At Cashel we held the sessions for the County of the Cross . . . The scope or latitude of this county, though it were never great, yet now is drawn into so narrow a compass that it doth not deserve the name of shire."

²⁷ Created by Letters Patent 9th Novr., 2 Edwd. III., (A.D. 1328) to Jas. le Botiller, Earl of Ormond for life & continued by various grants until seized by the Crown in 1621. (Fifth Rep. Dep. Keeper, P. R. O., p. 33.) Except from the early grants of lands in Tipperary made by Kings of England to their subjects, some of which are mentioned in Carte's Introduction to the life of Ormonde, it is not easy to see how the original area of the Palatinate can be defined. Even with the identification of these it might not be considered conclusive of the exercise and enjoyment of the Regalities & Liberties over the areas which they comprehended.

²⁸ Davies: A Discovery of the True Causes Why Ireland was not Subdued. Ed: H. Morley, London 1890, p. 278.

²⁹ "These absolute Palatines made Barons & Knights, did exercise high justice in all points within their territories, erected courts for criminal & civil causes & for their own revenues, in the same form as the King's Courts were established at Dublin; made their own judges, seneschals, sheriffs, coroners & escheators." Davies, ibid., p. 278.

³⁰ Calendar of "State Papers," Ireland, 1603-6.

³¹ "One of the first [counties] that ever was made in this kingdom" (Davies). Falkiner points out that Davies was misinformed in this, the duplication of counties having originated in the Palatine system (Counties of Ireland—ante, p. 193).

County Tipperary, proper, however, was one of the twelve counties said to have been made in the 10th., year of King John's reign. These counties, said Davies, did stretch no further "than the lands of the English colonies did extend." It is logical to conclude that the enjoyment & exercise of the Liberties & Regalities of the Palatinate of Tipperary, granted in 1328, were likewise limited to such lands in Tipperary. The grant of the Regalities gave to the Earl of Ormond the Regalities & Liberties which the King had in Tipperary, with certain reservations, and excepting "the profits of those portions of the Cross," but what areas comprised the one or the other are not set out. Under the Stat. 11, Eliz., Cap. 9. "for turning of counties that be not yet shire grounds into shire grounds," a Commission was issued directing that Tipperary, Waterford, Cork and other places should be divided into counties. The final delimitation of Tipperary, said to have been retarded by the exceptional conditions created by the existence of the Palatinate, was not effected until 1621.

Davies had pointed out that the "Cross of Tipperary" was so called because "within its precincts were the lands holden of the See of Cashel" or else lands "belonging to Abbeys or houses of religion."³² Its considerable reduction in size, as indicated by him, can be well understood. It would be explained, apart from the proceedings to which attention has been directed already,³³ by the suppression, at the Religious Revolution, of Houses of Religion, and when grants were made by the Crown of their possessions to laymen. At that period, it may be recalled, Religious Houses existed at Roscrea & Monela in Ikerrin; at Holycross and Thurles in Elio-garty; at Kilcooly in Slieveardagh & Compsy; at Cashel and Fethard in Middlethird; at Clonmel, Cahir, Carrick and Moylagh in Iffa and Offa; at Emly, Athassel and Tipperary in Clanwilliam, and at Toome in Kilnamanagh.³⁴

To establish the identity "of the lands of Abbeys and houses of religion within the precincts of Cross Tipperary" would be a considerable undertaking.

It was in the year of Davies report—1606, that the territory of Dough Arra was united to the County of the Cross of Tipperary. That County, so enlarged, was brought within the jurisdiction of the revived³⁵ and reconstituted Palatinate in 1662: "The letters patent restoring the jurisdiction, 22 April, 14, Charles II., recite that at the time of the seizure of the Liberty, the barony of Owny and Arra, and divers other towns, villages and townlands scattered through the various baronies of the County Tipperary, and called the County of the Cross of Tipperary, were annexed to the County of Tipperary, and made part and parcel of the said County, and proceed to grant to the Duke of Ormond, the Liberties, privileges etc., over the whole County of Tipperary, including the barony of Owny and Arra and the County of the Cross of Tipperary."³⁶ For this extended jurisdiction Carte gives some reasons.³⁷ It was an instance of the King's grace and favour. Further: "This County Cross was of no large extent, and it was scarce practicable to find a sufficient number of freeholders in it to serve as a Jury upon any trial. This and many other inconveniences arising from the separation of that peculiar, consisting almost entirely of Church lands, had made the Gentlemen and inhabitants long desirous of having it united to the main body of the County. This was now done by his Majesty's grant . . ."

³² Ante, page xxv of this Note.

³³ Ante, pages xxii and xxiii, ibid.

³⁴ "Monasticon Hibernicum," Archdall, pp. 639–77.

³⁵ The Palatinate was seized by the Crown by process of "Quo Warranto" in 1621 (19th Jas. I.). See Fifth Report of Dep. Keeper, P. R. O., pp. 34–36, where the privileges vested in the Earls of Ormond are translated from the Quo Warranto. In the new Grant the four pleas of Arson, Rape, Forestalling, & Treasure Trove were excepted as originally reserved in the patent of Edwd. III. This Patent of Edwd. III., is printed by Carte in his Introduction to Life of Ormonde, page 32. During the abeyance of the Palatinate the County of the Cross continued, apparently, its distinctiveness, it being represented in the Parliament of 1634 by Geoffrey Mockler, Esq., of Dracoasland. (This is probably Acarandraky, parish of Moorestownkirk, Bar. of Middlethird—Civil Survey, Vol. I. p. 212, and called Drake's Acre on the Book of Distribution.)

In the Parliament of 1585, the County of the Cross, as already stated, was represented by Edmond Prendergast, Esq., of Newcastle, and in that of 1613 by Thomas Laffan, Esq., of Cregstowne—Lodge's Parliamentary Register, Liber Munerum, Vol. I., Part I., page 36. In the writs for the earliest Parliaments the constituency is described as the "Crosses of Tipperary." In 1374 writs were directed to five such constituencies, namely, the Crosses of Ulster, Meath, Wexford, Tipperary, and Kerry.

The names of the representatives of the county proper—during the abeyance of the Palatinate, are also given by Lodge.

³⁶ Fifth Report, Dep. Keeper P. R. O., p. 34.

³⁷ History of the Life of James, Duke of Ormonde, Vol. II., p. 201.

The privileges and powers so granted continued until 1715 when, on the attainder of James, second Duke of Ormond, they were extinguished. By section two of the Act³⁸ 2, George, I., "whatsoever had been denominated or called Tipperary, or Cross-Tipperary should henceforth be and remain one county for ever under the name of the county of Tipperary"

Expression may again be given to the hope that the publication of these volumes will evoke enquiry as to the missing set of Civil Survey barony books. Certified copies, too, would be most valuable. It is believed that reposing amongst legal papers there must be many of these relating to particular baronies, parishes, or lands. Indeed, since the publication of Volume I, certified copies of the Civil Survey for Kilkenny—and for Callan and Inistiogue, these, discovered by Dr. Edmund Curtis, have been made available through the courtesy of the Earl of Ossory. That for Kilkenny has been transcribed and deposited in the National Library. A final word as to the Records of the Ordnance Survey relative to Tipperary. An excellent synopsis of these was made by O'Hanlon and published in the Journal of the Kilkenny Archaeological Society (Vol. 8, 1864-66, p. 124). He catalogued them in the following order:—(1) Inquisitions, three volumes, (2) Names from Down Survey and Book of Distribution, (3) Extracts, three volumes, (4) Letters, three volumes, (5) Orthography Letters, one volume, (6) Name Books, 234, (7) Barony & Parish Book, one volume, (8) Memorandums, including Orthography Letters, two volumes, (9) County Index to names on Ordnance maps, two volumes, (10) Memoir Papers, and (11) Sketches of Antiquities.

Of these there are deposited, in the Royal Irish Academy, the three volumes of Inquisitions, the three volumes of Extracts, the three volumes of Letters and the Sketches of antiquities. As to the Inquisitions (Chief Remembrancer and Rolls Office—Henry VIII to Wm., III) they refer to Church lands, the possessions of Religious Orders, and to numerous Tipperary families. The three volumes of Extracts contain excerpts from the Book of Lecan, the Book of Lismore, the Book of Glendalough, the Book of Kilkenny, etc., and from very many histories, and other sources. Each volume opens with a list of all the authorities from which the Extracts were made, and this is followed by an Index giving the name of the place to which the Extract referred. The well-known Letters of O'Donovan, and some Sketches of Tipperary Antiquities, would appear to complete the Royal Irish Academy Collection of the Ordnance Survey records for Tipperary.

NOTE ON MAPS

The outline Map of Tipperary, showing Boundaries of Baronies and Territories, A.D. 1654-56, prefixed to this Volume, is intended to aid the historical student by showing the relative positions and extent of these historic divisions. A few modern place names have been added, to serve as additional guiding points.

THE CIVIL SURVEY, A.D. 1654-56, was followed by the Maps of THE DOWN SURVEY, A.D. 1655-58, made under the direction of Dr. (later Sir) William Petty, Surveyor-General.

As for other Counties, the twelve large-scale Barony and Territory Maps of THE DOWN SURVEY for Tipperary have been reproduced, full size, from the set now in the Bibliotheque Nationale, Paris. They will be found most useful in connection with the CIVIL SURVEY. Prices :—Uncoloured, 2s. 6d. each ; coloured as in the Paris Maps, 5s. od. each.

According to the Book of Distributions, this barony also contained part of the parish of Dangandergan. It appears there as shown in the following extract:—
