

MORE RED TAPE!!

MR. Armstrong, of Wexford, has got the contract from the Commissioners of Irish Lights for raising and removing the hull of the barque "Wolverine," wrecked on the 17th March, 1867, in Crookhaven Harbour, County Cork, and permitted by the Board of Trade to lie in the only harbour of refuge from the Shannon to Kinsale for more than eleven years, to the imminent danger of all vessels seeking shelter there. Will the members of Parliament for the County Cork take note of this!

[Taken from Irish Builder, Vol. XX, 1878, p.319]