

THE CORK EXHIBITION.

AFTER a successful run of ninety-one days, this exhibition was closed on Saturday afternoon. It is stated that the number of visitors during that period was over 300,000. As a display of manufactures there can be little doubt but that the exhibition will prove of ultimate benefit to this country. A judicious expenditure of capital at the present juncture is much desiderated.

[Taken from Irish Builder, Vol. XXV, 1883, p.317]